

FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions)

Question

Response

I was absent when we covered this part of the material on the test/quiz. Do I have to take this part of the test/quiz?

Yes. If you are absent, you are responsible for getting the notes, making up the assignment, and seeking help during tutorials. Remember you have the syllabus; you know when the quizzes and tests are scheduled!!

If I am absent on the day of a test or a quiz, when do I make up the test/quiz?

ASAP You have two (2) school days after your absence to make up your test. The quiz will be taken immediately. See me to make an appointment.

Can I retake the test or quiz if I fail it?

Yes. You are required to complete the chapter test review in order to be eligible for a retest option. Quiz scores will be adjusted according to your demonstration of subject mastery

Can I turn in my homework later?

Homework should be turned in during the class period in which it is due. Also, it will not be accepted after the associated test.

When do I turn in homework that I made up after an excused absence?

You have two (2) school days to make up your work.

Where do I turn in homework that I made up after an excused absence?

A make-up work basket is located back by my desk. Be sure that your name, period, assignment and the day it was due are clearly written on your paper and note that it is absent work!

How important is homework?

Are you serious?!! Completing your homework means that the work is shown and you understand the concepts well enough to do similar problems. This is your time to learn and will ensure your success.

Is there any extra credit work?

No.
